SPEEDRUN

Sudio

Lena Wilde

Show open: Sudio and Lena Wilde at ringside, discussing their title match

Lena Wilde: "Locked In 4... the women's championship. Main event. Me and you. That's unreal to even say out loud."

Sudio: "We've been talking about this since day one. Now it's real."

Lena Wilde: "Yeah... but it feels different now. This place is changing."

Sudio: "It is. New people, new energy... but they don't know what we've put into this. They bring a lot, but they don't know this place like we do."

Lena Wilde: "We built it. Together. Best friends doing this from nothing."

Sudio: "And now we're fighting over it."

Lena Wilde: "Not over it... for it."

Sudio: "Exactly."

Lena Wilde: "I've waited too long for this to hesitate now."

Sudio: "I wouldn't respect you if you did."

Lena Wilde: "I'm coming for that title."

Sudio: "Then come get it."

Lena Wilde: "Just know... I'm not holding anything back."

Sudio: "Good. Because I'm not either."

MATCH 1

MATCH ONE

SPEEDRUN

MARISOL VELA VS VENESSA VALE

Marisol Vela

Dominic Hex

Marisol Vela leads the way with Hex watching her back

Chaz Chaz Del Rio: "This is interesting, we haven't seen Dominic Hex since that loss to KillJoy at Black Light 32. The streak snapped, but he's still dangerous, and tonight he's watching Marisol's back."

Match: Marisol drags Vale into her pace early, grinding the arm and knee with tight control and short strikes, nearly stealing it with a rope hung Sombra Lock. Vale stays composed, slipping free and firing back with crisp counters and quick bursts that force near falls. Marisol cuts her off with a vicious Hexmark Knee and keeps targeting the arm, slowing everything down. Vale keeps answering, fluid and patient, turning openings into sudden momentum swings. The match settles into a tense rhythm, both trading control, damage building, every counter tighter than the last. Outside, Hex stays locked on the ramp, ready for any Seers interference, while inside the ring both women push to the edge, the finish just within reach.

MATCH TWO

BLACK LIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

SEMI FINALS

CALEB CROSS VS CIARRAN KENNEDY

Cross and Kennedy lock in, neither man giving an inch before the bell

Bert McDaniels: "The Black Light Championship semi finals are underway and both of these men have turned heads in CFW. Cross all business. Kennedy explosive and hungry this one means everything"

Match: Cross leans in early, heavy strikes and pressure, trying to slow it down and make it hurt, but Kennedy refuses to get trapped, slipping out and firing back in quick bursts. Cross starts to take over, a brutal Iron Line nearly ending it before he drags Kennedy into the Foundry Lock, cranking hard, but Kennedy claws free and answers with a sudden spike that flips everything. The pace jumps, both men trading tight near falls, Cross breaking him down piece by piece, Kennedy staying just a step ahead, every opening closing fast as the urgency builds and the match barrels toward its breaking point.

Round 3: Caleb Cross 17 — Ciaran Kennedy 19

Ciaran Kennedy takes it (0-3)

The pace spikes as both men start hunting big moves, Cross cracking him with a lariat and muscling him up for Last Testament, but Kennedy slips it at the last second, double underhooks and drops into The Saltire Spike. It's tight, Cross nearly powers out, but Kennedy holds it just long enough for the three.

WINNER: CIARAN KENNEDY | FINISH: SALTIRE SPIKE | TIME: 16:02

MATCH THREE

BLACK LIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

SEMI FINALS

SPEEDRUN

SAVIOR HAWKINS VS ÁGUILA FERAL

Feral spreads his arms in a chilling ritual of confidence and dominance

Chaz Del Rio: "The semi finals continue and Águila Feral has been at the center of CFW since day one. No one's been more consistent. No one's been more dominant. Undefeated in tag team action and one of the strongest singles records in the company. This whole thing keeps circling back to him."

Match: Feral opens with that ritual confidence, arms wide, but the moment they clash it turns violent. Hawkins answers with speed and precision, chaining offense, pushing a pace that feels desperate, like he is trying to outrun something inside him. Feral absorbs it and fires back heavier, dragging the match into a brutal fight, shedding the arrogance and turning cold, methodical. The crowd rises as momentum snaps back and forth, strikes landing harder, time stretching. Hawkins keeps coming, digging deeper, refusing to break. He finally creates space, something shifts, and with everything on the line he goes for broke, setting up for a huge top tope Bitter Consequences...

FINISH

MATCH THREE FINISH

ÁGUILA FERAL VS SAVIOR HAWKINS

Águila Feral takes it (2-2)

Round 5: Águila Feral 14 — Savior Hawkins 18

Savior Hawkins takes it (2-3)

Hawkins commits, crashing down with Bitter Consequences in a gutsy, all or nothing gamble. Both men hit hard, the ring shaking, Hawkins barely able to move as he drapes over Feral. One... two... three.

Chaz Del Rio: "What a win. You just don't beat Águila Feral like that. That might be the biggest statement we've seen in CFW."

WINNER: SAVIOR HAWKINS

FINISH: TOP ROPE BITTER CONSEQUENCES

TIME: 15:22

MAIN EVENT

SPEEDRUN

ADAM STRYKER VS JACE VALOR

Stryker grabs an official backstage demanding they do their job

Adam Stryker: "I'm walking into a main event with the biggest star in this company so do your job and have security keep Rokk the hell away from my match."

Match: The bell stretches the tension instead of breaking it. They circle slow, measured, Jace dictating early with sharp strikes and quick chains, feeding off the crowd while Stryker keeps stealing glances toward the ramp for Reign Rokk. Every time he does, Jace makes him pay, snapping him down, pushing the pace, nearly catching the Valor Clutch. Stryker drags it back into his world, grinding, cutting off momentum, turning it heavy and deliberate. The longer it goes the tighter it gets, Jace firing bursts, Stryker answering with pressure, both pushing closer to something big. Then Rokk's music hits. This time Jace looks. Just a second. Stryker doesn't. He steps in, hooks, lifts, and drills him with The Last Day on Earth, rolling straight into the cover. One...
